FIELD NOW CLEAR

Whether it was the persistent diplomacy of President Wilson or the logic of circumstances that brought Germany to terms, in either event the President will get much of the credit for the happy result. However, this question of personal credit is of minor importance compared with the result itself.

The first consequence of this concession on the part of Germany is, of course, the assurance of continued friendly relations between Germany and the United States. This is the matter of most immediate importance. While actual war between Germany and the United States was a physical impossibility, since neither could get at the other, the rupture of friendly relations was at one time dangerously near. This risk is now apparently averted, and it is a matter for worldwide congratulation that it should be so.

Much more important, however, is the use which President Wilson shall make of his opportunities in the newly cleared situation. Merely to keep out of war is but a negative achievement, and is one in which China has generally succeeded better than any other nation. To accomplish positive results is something more important. The freedom of the seas has been obstructed more effectively, though less violently, by England than by Germany, and the interest not merely of the United States in the present crisis, but of the whole world for all the future, makes it imperative that an effective protest against this obstruction of the rights of peaceful commerce be now entered against England. President Wilson has felt that he must not connect the English issue with the German one, and he has had, therefore, to postpone all but the formal stages of the English controversy until the German question had reached a separate settlement. That settlement being now in sight, the English question, which is really more important, though perhaps less urgent, can now be taken up.

The positiveness and the success with which this is done may very largely determine the prestige of America and our usefulness as mediator in the final settlement of the war. It will also even more clearly determine whether the rights of peace for the future are to have any clear, strong voice to maintain them, or whether the result of this war shall be to leave the peaceful commerce of the world at the mercy of whoever shall choose to go to war to obstruct it.

If these positive results can be achieved, the full fruits of the present more negative victory will have been gathered. And whether they are achieved or not, there is satisfaction in the present assurance that at least we shall be able to keep out of entanglement in the European chaos.

UNFORTIFIED WINE

An interesting suggestion, which might have relieved at least a part of the sweet wine situation, was made two or three years ago by Charles A. Wetmore, the well-known California wine maker. Mr. Wetmore's suggestion was based upon an address submitted to the International Congress of Viticulture held in 1907 at Angers, France, by M. Vincens, then director of the French government wine station of the Division of the Southwest. Mr. Vincens outlined a method for the making of natural sweet wines without fortification with alcohol, without the addition of sugar or concentrates, and without the use of antiseptics or preservatives of any sort. The method of M. Vincens was applied almost exclusively to the preparation of sweet white wines, but with some modifications the same method could be applied at least to some extent to the preparation of sweet red wines. It is an interesting fact that among the products produced by this method is a sort of cheap bulk champagne which can be perfected within a few months of the vintage, which is finished in vats instead of in separate bottles and can be shipped in barrels or tank cars and served from the barrels in a sufficiently sparkling condition. The method of manufacture is, perhaps, slightly more complex than those now adopted in Fresno for the manufacture of fortified sweet wines, but the difference is not great enough to forbid investigation.

The main difficulty probably would be not so much in producing a certain amount of wines of this new type as in finding an immediate market for them. Unfortunately, the established market connections for the sweet wines of California lead too directly to what is really not a wine market, but a liquor market. Our wines were very strong and cheap, and the young markets which are looking for a strong, cheap drink. These natural sweet wines are not so strong and may in fact be made very light indeed in alcohol. They might ultimately find a very large market and a much more legitimate one than the one to which we have hitherto chiefly appealed, but since it would not be the exact market in which we have habitually sold, it might require some enterprise and effort to find or develop it.

Nevertheless, if the wine industry of central California is to continue the character of that industry ought to change very radically. Even if the law should be restored so as to make it again possible profitably to produce the sort of wines we have been producing, it will be no use to try old methods and markets for other sorts of wines. The local market of this nation is doomed. The beverage market may not be doomed, and is certainly not doomed so soon. It is absolutely possible to produce dry wines of a fair grade and a very low price in the sweet wine regions, and it is also possible, at least within limits, to produce unfortified light natural sweet wines of a sort which may find a very large and legitimate market. The sweet wine districts of California would have a natural monopoly of at least this type of wine.

It may be too late to undertake much in this direction this year, since it would take time to find or develop the proper markets. But in this year of depression in the wine industry of central California, it is well to take stock of the future. There will doubtless be many who go out of the wine business and few who enter it. But those who do remain in the business of producing wine grapes are decidedly interested in the permanence of that business. If its permanence is attached to the permanence of what we have called the booze market, its tenure of life may be short indeed. It will not make much difference whether California permits or prohibits the manufacture of wine if the other states prohibit its shipment or sale. We must get out of the booze market or share its fate. One way to get out of that market is to quit making booze. It must be confessed that too much of what we have been making in the sweet wine districts could properly have been classified under no other heading.

STATE MARKETING

New York has moved faster than California in at least one respect. The new state marketing bureau of New York has started public auctions to dispose of New York's great peach crop. California has a commission of investigation to look into into the question of establishing such a bureau, but the matter has not yet passed the investigation stage. Probably we shall be the better off in the long run for this more conservative course. Our problems are more difficult than those of New York in the disposing of our highly specialized products on a distant market, and we shall need all the results of investigation and experience to safeguard ourselves against a rash experiment, which might by failure of detail indefinitely postpone the success of the entire scheme. It would, for instance, be of small service in disposing of the present peach crop in California for some state bureau to undertake to auction it off in San Francisco. Our job is bigger and harder, and we must go about it more carefully.

But the fact that the thing can be done in New York without horrifying anybody is at least a demonstration that we have reached a new age in the world and have found it out. Here is a quite "unheard of" invasion of the field of private business by government activity. The government has actually gone into the business of selling the farmer's crops for him. A few years ago even the suggestion of such a thing would have been greeted with cries of horror, and would have been demolished by the quite conclusive argument that it was "unprecedented." To be sure, the precedent of Greece, of Brazil, of Denmark and of Germany could even then have been cited. But in those days a thing was "unprecedented" unless the precedent had happened in the United States in the time of our grandfathers. We have learned a few things in the past dozen or twenty years, and among them we are beginning to learn that twentieth century conditions require governments to do some things which were not expected of them in the eighteenth century, and that if other governments do things in their countries which are good for their people there is no fatal objection to our government doing likewise.

THREE SEASONS.
"A cup for thee," she said,
In springtime was the bloom was old;
The crimson wine was poor and cold
By her mouth's sugar red.

"A cup for love," how low,
How soft the words, and all the while
Her blush was rippling with a smile
Like summer after snow.

"A cup for memory?"
Cold cup that one must drain alone;
While autumn winds are up and mean
Across the barren sea.

Hope, memory, love,
Hope for the morrow, and love for day,
And memory for the evening gray
And solitary dove.

JOY FOR ONE AT LEAST.
A minister meeting a parishioner of his who had been quite recently married, and about whose domestic happiness terrible stories were told, saluted him, and said:
"Well, John," says he, "and how is all going on?"
"Oh, happily enough," returns John, "I glad to hear it. You know there were rumors of rows, and—"
"How," says John, "oh, yes, there are plenty of rows, whenever she sees she catches the first thing to hand, a dish or anything, and flings it at me. She hits me, she's happy. If she doesn't, I'm—"
"Oh, we're getting on fine!"—The Bitts.

"The Man I Left Behind"

CLEAN WATER, GOOD SEWERS AND FEWER TYPHOID DEATHS

Clean water to drink—this is the long first step to take toward making typhoid fever as rare in California as the miasma of the same disease is in Egypt.

To help people get clean water to drink, and to help prevent the present wicked and inexcusable sacrifice of several hundred innocent lives every year to typhoid fever, the state board of health has just established a bureau of sanitary engineering, with its offices and laboratories at the University of California, and has appointed as chief engineer and director of the bureau, Chester G. Gillespie, of high reputation as a sanitary engineer and one of the best men who ever completed the full professional course in sanitary engineering in the university. He received his professional training at the hands of Charles Clinton Hyde, professor of sanitary engineering in the University of California, who for a number of years past, as consulting engineer of the state board of health, has been doing work of great value for the improvement of public health conditions in California. Since Gillespie's graduation, eight years ago, he has been actively at work designing and building chlorination and filter plants, sewage-disposal systems, water works, etc., in various parts of the United States.

The state's new sanitary engineer has only just arrived in Berkeley, to begin his work. Already requests are waiting for him from more than thirty California towns for advice as to how they ought to go about getting clean water and how to protect themselves against typhoid, intestinal complaints of children and other water-borne diseases.

Not only as to water-supply problems will the new bureau be of great service, but also in the matter of sewage-disposal, for advice will be given to the engineers and authorities of towns and villages throughout California as to how best to treat sewage so as to render it harmless to the community which seeks to dispose of it, and to towed down stream as well.

There are already laws requiring that all public water supplies must have permits from the state board of health, approving the sanitary quality of sources and supply. There are, also, laws also that a community must not discharge sewage into inland waters, such as lakes or rivers, nor into tidal waters, without permits from the State Board of Health. In order that this legislation may be carried out, the new bureau will make a careful study of water-supply and sewage-disposal conditions throughout the whole state.

Remarkable advance has been made in California in the last few years in reducing the death-rate from typhoid. Last year only about three-fifths as many people died of typhoid in California, in proportion to population, as did four years earlier. In 1910 there were 477 deaths from typhoid, with a population of 2,350,000, representing a death rate of 19.9 per hundred thousand from this one disease. In 1914, with an estimated population of 2,700,000, there were 274 deaths, or 12.4 per hundred thousand.

Among the recent factors which brought about this gratifying reduction, was the work of the State Board of Health in arousing the interest of the whole community in the fight against typhoid, and in the State Hygienic Laboratory, such as its investigation resulting in the discovery of one woman, a typhoid carrier, who had given the disease to many, and her subsequent treatment, and the work of the State Board of Health in sending free to any physician in California anti-typhoid vaccine prepared at the State Hygienic Laboratory at the University, a vaccine by the use of which anyone who desires may be immunized against typhoid fever.

The creation of this new Bureau of Sanitary Engineering insures valuable co-operation between the state and the individual communities of California for the suppression of sources of typhoid infection, through purification of contaminated water supplies and through improved methods of sewage disposal. Another great task to be done is to arouse every farmer and every country dweller in California to the importance, for the protection of his own family and of the community in general, of seeing to it that his own farm or ranch has a proper sanitary method for the disposal of human wastes, so that streams may not become contaminated, and milk cans and the milk supply be not exposed to infection.

Typhoid is primarily a country and small town disease, because large cities take more care to have clean water and adequate systems of sewerage disposal. There are two rural counties in the interior of California, for example, that have an annual death rate from typhoid eight times as heavy as that of San Mateo county, for instance. The great reason for this is that the sources of water supply in San Mateo county have been better protected from danger of pollution. Its towns do not pour their sewage into streams from which other people must take their drinking water.

The new chief engineer and director of the bureau of sanitary engineering began his professional work by spending several years as a filtration expert for the People's Water Company of Oakland. Then he aided in the designing and building of the huge swimming pool on the University campus. Then he went East, participated in the designing of the filter plant for Minneapolis, had charge of the designing of a water filtration plant for Evanston, Illinois, and returned recently to Sacramento to design a sewage screen system for the city, and to towed down stream as well.

TOO LATE THEN.
A Highlandman from Tehermy asked the price of a railway ticket from Olan to Killa of the clerk at the Olan railway station.
"How much," replied the clerk.
"That was," replied Donald, "it's far over dear! I'd rather wait!" And off he started.

He had not proceeded far when the train came tearing along, whistling as it neared a station.
"Ye needna whistle for me!" said Donald. "I made ye an offer afore, and ye wouldn't tak it; sae ye can gang on. I'm no comin'!"—Chicago News.

Redlands Tourist Finds Mount Whitney Very Easy to Scale

C. W. Worcester, a trail contractor of Redlands has just arrived in Fresno from a hiking expedition to the summit of Mount Whitney.

Three weeks ago Worcester set out on foot from Porterville with his knapsack over his shoulder. After making the trip to Camp Nelson, he started up the Kern river to the Golden Trout creek, from where he made his way to Mount Whitney, an elevation of 14,500 ft. On his way to the mountain he did considerable fishing, finding the fish plentiful in the Golden Trout creek.

After reaching the summit Worcester crossed the Harrison trail, passed east lake and following the Buckhorn creek and Kern river canyon, arrived at General Grant Park.

Speaking of Mount Whitney, Worcester says: "I was surprised to find Mount Whitney easily accessible. From the top I had a splendid view of Death Valley on one side, while to the north I could distinguish snow and lakes which were frozen over."

AUTO MEN SLOW IN OFFERING CARS

Thousands of Requests to Secure Machines for Irrigationists

In order to secure the 500 automobiles which it is believed will be necessary for the entertainment of the visitors and delegates to the twenty-second National Irrigation Congress, to be held in Fresno September 15-16, the Fresno county reception committee must send out 16,667 letters.

Mr. Cooper, secretary, said yesterday, Mr. Cooper, who is making plans for the entertainment of the delegates, said yesterday that he had sent out 300 letters, requesting the loan of automobiles for the first day of the congress.

He had received twelve replies, one of which is a request for the loan of three cars. Mr. Cooper said yesterday, "At this rate, to secure 500 machines, more than 15,000 letters must be written. The postage alone, having added the cost of stationery and stenographer hire, would be $49,995. Mr. Cooper was figuring very earnestly, and seemed to have no doubt of the success of the campaign, but he was filled with his calculations, that the reception committee will have a hard task in securing the necessary number of automobiles."

L. A. Nares of Fresno is chairman and George S. Waterman of Fresno is vice-chairman of the California Board of Control. The trustees of the congress will be held in Stockton, September 13-14; Fresno, September 15-16; Sacramento, September 17-18; and San Francisco, September 19-20. It is expected that a number of men prominent in the affairs of the United States will attend the meetings of the congress here.

POSTMASTER HUGHES BACK FROM VACATION

Fresno Official Returns From Month's Visit at Exposition

Postmaster Earle Hughes has returned from San Francisco where he spent a month's vacation. Mr. Hughes attended the convention of postmasters of the state last month.

Of particular interest to Mr. Hughes in his visits to the Exposition grounds was the model post office demonstrated in the Mines Building by the government. Mr. Hughes said this exhibit was one of the most popular.

Various officials from the United States post office in Washington have been connected with this exhibit from time to time since the fair opened.

Mr. Hughes said yesterday, "And they have been able in this way to get in touch with public sentiment. These officials have discovered that California has a postal problem different from any other state. This problem is in the form of paper mail. The paper and publication mail is particularly heavy and presents a problem for the carriers. This condition is the result of the fact that many persons from this state have come from Eastern points and are readers of their home papers."

What Anne Rittenhouse Says About the Styles

If You Have Any Lace This Is the Time to Get Together.

NEW YORK, September 1.—The fashion for lace frocks did not mature, although Paris made a point of exploiting them, and all Americans admitted their beauty and utility for summer wear. They are better than muslin in an economical way for they serve through the following winter as evening gowns.

Perhaps the fashion will spring up again in the late autumn and be adopted by the dressmakers, and adapted by the fashionable woman. There are so many advantages in having a smart lace gown, white or black, in the closet, ready for any emergency that no woman with a sensible outlook upon economy can afford to let the idea slip.

Lace needs careful handling. It is true, and the original price is not small, but there are so many kinds of net with lace patterns, and lace itself at reasonable prices, that one need not regard the initial expense as disastrous.

Satin Linings Usual. There are usually satin linings to be found among the things that are always saved in every household when its members know the value of smart frocks. In these clothes it is not the one-piece slip of thin gauze or silk should be made; every woman who indulges in even the simplest of social life finds this separate garment a blessing. They are for sale in the shops in varied degrees of fineness, but the making at home is a matter of a day.

The French made a strong showing a few years ago of frocks that had no bones and were called "slippers." An ugly, but expressive phrase for a convenient and attractive garment. They were made in two parts, held together by the belt, and fastened in the back. Lace, chiffon, voile and net were used and the foundation was of satin, usually in colors. These have been reproduced in all-over lace for informal use and the dressmakers are taking up the idea for gay evening frocks.

There is a slight difference these days, between house frocks and ball frocks, although the Victorian tendency threatened a gulf. For some reason, there have been quite a good many fascinating tea frocks shown recently by dressmakers. These were made in two parts, held together by the belt, and fastened in the back. Lace, chiffon, voile and net were used and the foundation was of satin, usually in colors. These have been reproduced in all-over lace for informal use and the dressmakers are taking up the idea for gay evening frocks.

The sketch was made from such a tea gown that came over from Paris to be worn in New York. It is of cream lace over a soft shade of watermelon pink satin. The kimono jacket is held together by small buttons. The skirt is of the same material and has a full, flowing line. The prevailing line of coats and blouses is being pitched in at the sides so that it will flare out at the waist. The full skirt is caught up at one side in the manner adopted by many designers last spring who copied their house frocks from the old portraits at Versailles.

It has been a long time since we wore yokes and sleeves of lace in a frock of voile or silk, yet the fashion has been started with some success in high places. One of the most fashionable women in Newport has adopted it, using black lace under a jumper of black chiffon, the neck slightly low and the sleeves extra long. Already there are long, moderately full sleeves of cream lace in afternoon frocks of colored taffeta, white cloth bodices to go with white frock suits trimmed with white fur have long sleeves and yoke of white lace.

Probably the fashion will spread. It would not be unwise to save whatever lace you have in anticipation.

pointing especially well. An excellent plan, folding at the center so that the body itself does not have to be turned, a glass coffee grinder, and pepper and salt casters, with two and three bottles are among the other handy things.

Business women are given to putting their kitchenettes in odd places. In bureau drawers, washstands, in the space a door between rooms, sometimes gives, and so on. But if the little space used is fitted up compactly and kept neatly it may be anywhere. One thing is certain—the kitchenette adds to the joy of life. It is, above all, the cure open to the woman, away from home, for homesickness and folly. But one must learn to cook of course.

Gouraud's Oriental Cream

An Easy Way To Get Fat And Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on dragging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy food, rubbing on useless "flesh cream," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere which gently cleanses the intestinal elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This modern treatment is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol acts through regenerative, re-constructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to the starved, broken-down cells and tissues of your body. You can readily picture what result this amazing transformation should produce as with increased weight the cheeks fill out, hollows about neck, shoulders and hips disappear and from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh is added to the body. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. San Joaquin Drug Co., Webster Bros. Inc., Patterson, Black Pharmacy and other leading druggists of this vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

NOTE—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous digestion, etc., have been reported, Sargol should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

TEACHERS ASSIGNED TO SCHOOLS FOR YEAR; PRINCIPALS CHANGED

Preparations Being Made to Open City and County Schools on September 13; New Schools Will Be Ready for Occupancy

Announcement of the assignment of teachers to the different schools of the city for the coming year was made yesterday by C. C. Starr, superintendent of schools. The usual number of changes have been made this year in switching the teachers from one school to another. Changes have also been made in the principals of several of the schools. The school term in Fresno opens September 13. All of the city schools will open on that date as well as the majority of the county schools.

Three Intermediate Schools

There will be three intermediate schools this year in which the seventh and eighth grades will be taught. The intermediate schools will be the new Washington school, Longfellow school and the Edison school.

W. B. Munson, former principal of Emerson school, has been transferred to the Longfellow school; D. D. Davis from Hawthorne school to Emerson; J. W. Caplan from Kirk to Hawthorne; James A. McGuffin, principal of Kirk; Homer C. Wilson, former superintendent of schools at Hanford, will be the principal of the Hawthorne school, and W. L. Potts will be principal of the Edison school.

The old Webster school has been abandoned and the new Webster school will be occupied this year. The Hawthorne school will this year occupy the brick school on Fresno street and the Washington school will occupy its new home on Glenn avenue. The old Hawthorne school has been abandoned with the exception of a few rooms on the second floor which will be used by the commercial department of the high school because of the crowded condition of that institution.

The six new open-air type of schools will be completed for the Kirk school in time for the opening of the school this month.

The teachers have been assigned as follows:

BURGLARS EXPLORE CHAMBER COMMERCE BUILDING WEDNESDAY

Only Article of Value to Thieves, Heavy Silver Cup, Not Taken

Burglars entered the Chamber of Commerce building early yesterday morning, but after an inventory of the exhibits and the contents of the office was taken, it was found that nothing was stolen. Entrance was made through a window, the screen being forced and the sash "jimmied". The building is located where many of the unemployed congregated, and the officials with offices there believe the "fourth story window" in few hours' sleep and did not have the price of a room at a hotel. There is little of value in the building to those of a predatory nature. The most valuable article is a solid silver cup, eight inches in height, which was awarded to the Chamber of Commerce at the National Income Show held at San Bernardino in 1914. This is a glass case and would have to be melted by a thief before it was disposed of. Last week a thief entered the building and stole the case of one of the stenographers. The purse, which contained $25, was found by the police in the lavatory of the Southern Pacific railway station. No trace of the money was discovered.

COUPLE EJECTED FROM LOCAL HOTEL

Wife of Traveling Salesman Arrives Too Late to Arrest Husband

Arthur G. Coons, salesman for a Portland, Ore., lithographic company, and Miss Sexton of Mill Valley were ejected from the Sequoia hotel by Manager White, arrived here yesterday afternoon. Following a conference with District Attorney McCormick yesterday, she announced that she would bring a charge of failure to provide against her husband as soon as she returned to Los Angeles. According to the management of the hotel, the couple had been living there for two weeks as man and wife. Being informed that Coons had a wife, she wrote to a firm who had formerly employed the salesman. Mrs. Coons in turn learned of the facts and in a long distance message to Mr. White, requested that they be detained until she arrived. Fearing he claims, that Mrs. Coons would create a disturbance in the hotel, Mr. White ejected the couple from the hotel Tuesday night. They left on a northbound train at midnight. In her story at the district attorney's office yesterday, Mrs. Coons declared that she had often been left in destitute circumstances by her husband, but that she had never believed reports concerning him which were derogatory to his character. In a letter mailed here last Friday Coons informed his wife that he was staying at a boarding house to avoid expense.

WE BUY IN TRAINLOADS FOR CASH

Entire Stock of Hawley-King & Co. to Be Sold At Wholesale Prices

A train-load of Implements, Wagons and Vehicles to be sold to you at actual wholesale prices—the prices that the DEALERS all over California and Arizona have been paying for these same goods. Schuttler wagons—Columbus and Moyer buggies—Winona business and delivery wagons—Buckeye grain drills—and 20 other high-grade lines—to be sold to you for less money than you would pay if you were to buy in straight carloads direct from the manufacturers.

Mail orders from farmers or dealers will be filled promptly.

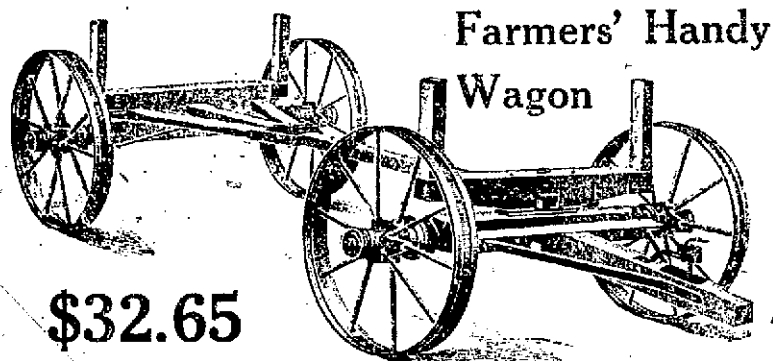

No discounts will be allowed to dealers from the prices given here. These prices are net and the same to everybody.

Why Did Hawley-King & Company of Los Angeles Make This Sacrifice?

Hawley-King & Company was one of Los Angeles' largest wholesale implement houses. They started in business in Los Angeles thirty-three years ago. During that time they became interested in a great many other lines of business. Mr. King, the active manager of the company, wished to be free to devote his time to these interests. He wanted to close out his implement and vehicle business quickly. He knew that it would pay him to close out the entire stock at a low cash price. We had the cash to buy. So he accepted our ridiculously low offer for his entire stock.

We are going to make a quick clean-up of this stock by offering it to you at actual wholesale prices.

Here are a few of the many high-grade implements in this stock.

Farmers' Handy Wagon

$32.65

These gears are standard track and have 28-inch front and 30-inch rear wheels with 4-inch channelled tires. Axles have 3 1/2-inch skeins. The entire gear is made of hard woods—oak and hickory—well ironed and strongly braced. Hawley-King sold this gear for $40.00. Our price to you is only $32.65 (Complete with doubletrees and neckyoke)

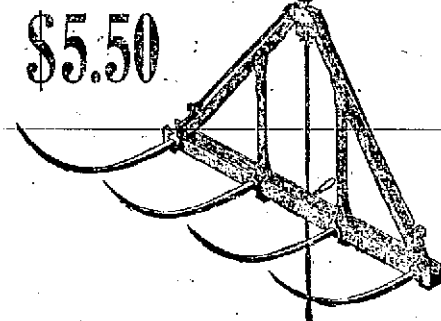

Drag Scrapers

$3.60

Maybe you don't have work enough to justify the purchase of a Fresno scraper, or possibly you want to work in small ditches or other places where the Fresno scraper cannot be used. In either case you need a dip scraper. We got a big lot of these in this stock. They cost us just half of what we would regularly pay and are priced to you proportionately. You will never have another chance like this.

No. 2—King Scraper	$3.60
No. 2—King Scraper	$4.20
No. 1—American Scraper	$1.50

This type of fork is standard and requires no description. Our prices are about two-thirds of the regular prices and we expect to sell the few that were in this stock in a short time. But while they last—

Economy bolster springs are especially well designed for use in this valley where the flat rack bed is in general use. You will notice that the coil springs come directly under the bed stringers, so that the strain is taken off of the wooden cross piece of the springs. The price of these springs is such that every farmer can afford them. We have a full line of sizes—our prices here being only on a few sizes.

There are only about 75 sets of springs of this type in this stock. While we have most sizes on hand, the line is not complete, so we are making prices on them that will move them out fast. If the size you want is listed here, now is the time to buy. You will never have a chance to get springs at this price again.

Genuine Peter Schuttler Wagon

Complete As Shown $86.50

Here's another "buy"—a genuine Peter Schuttler wagon, with 3-in. steel skein axle, 4-in. tires, and 16-ft. California bed as shown for only $86.50. This is less than what the dealer regularly pays. Hawley-King sold this wagon for $150.00. There are only two of this style in the stock. When they are gone you can't buy another at anything like this price. If you want one of these wagons don't delay. Place your order now. We also have a large line of light one- and two-horse wagons with beds and brakes ranging in price from $56.00 to $88.00.

John Deere "Success" Manure Spreader

We got a few Deere manure spreaders in this stock. Like the balance of the line, we bought them for about half what they cost Hawley-King. That's the reason we can sell them at these prices.

70 bushels capacity, Hawley-King price was $165.00; Our price is $104.00

$28.60

A short time before we bought this stock, Hawley-King received a carload of vineyard trucks. This carload, added to those we had on hand, gives us too many trucks, and to reduce our stock to its normal size we are going to cut the prices. These trucks have 3-inch skeins (not 2 1/2 as generally used) full circle double turn tables, hard wood bolsters (not pine) heavy king bolts, good combination pole-and-shafts and doubletrees and neckyokes. The wheels have extra heavy channelled tires. They are better trucks than those usually sold for $10.00 to $15.00 more than our price. Cross truck with 22-inch wheels, 4-inch tires, with pole, doubletrees and neckyoke, with frame, ready for top boards. Hawley-King price was $35—Our price is $28.60

"ISLE OF REGENERATION" IS SUPERFINE MARGUERITE CLARK TOMORROW AT KINEMA.

Marguerite Clark Fools the Officers With a Saucy Wink—Scene From "Seven Sisters"—At the Kinema

"The Island of Regeneration" went over to big audiences yesterday at the Kinema. Briefly it is a "big" production, there is no understating that. It abounds in dramatic situations—situations that deeply move. Certainly in filming the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady masterpiece unusual picture judgment has been used. Directors, actors and cameramen have done more than well. It is a big theme, particularly well handled.

The Story of a Society Woman, Who Casting Conventions Aside, Eventually Changes Her Mind.

The story is splendid in itself, outside of the many spectacular scenes of fire at sea and earthquake. Katherine Denton is a woman who thinks she believes in some sort of new thought. Challenged to put her ideas to a test, she consents to take a trip for two weeks in a yacht with a man. Assailed by him, she escapes to an island in the tropics, where she meets a castaway, and there brings "regeneration" to him as well as to herself.

Marguerite Clark in a Rollicking Farce Comedy Tomorrow Called "Seven Sisters"

Following on the heels, tomorrow, of the "Island of Regeneration," comes another top notch offering. Adorable Marguerite Clark, four feet two inches tall, comes in the very best play that she has done since "Wildfire." There is a play in which every scene is permeated with the golden rays of youth. The humor is of the rollicking type, unaffected and captivating. It is sunny with the glad glamour of life—the age of romance. Marguerite

War and Catarrh Are Unmerciful Agents of The Grim Reaper

WITH relentless fury the hand of war robs the earth of its noble, brave hearted sons, and with a fierce advance, the army of catarrh blots out lives, full of promise for a useful career.

Catarrhal germs may first make their appearance in the form of diseased mucous membranes in the nose, throat, stomach, bronchial tubes, kidneys, bladder or bowels, but always the result is far-reaching, toward tearing down the physical structure, and leaving in its place a good for nothing wreck, that is of little use in fighting the battles of life.

CALIFORNIA BEAUTY HAS ATTRACTIVE ACT AT PLAZA

Most Perfectly Formed
Woman Is Mae
Bennett

Mae Josephine Bennett, famous beauty, now playing at Plaza

That the trials and tribulations of a professional beauty are great, and that the limelight is not always a bed of roses, is the statement of Mae Josephine Bennett, the California model, who is the headline act at the Plaza air-domed.

When seen at the Plaza last night she told of her numerous experiences, both bitter and sweet, with such charming lack of affectation that one could but marvel at the common belief in the "haughtiness" of beauty. "Conceit," she exclaimed, "such vanity as I ever possessed has been most thoroughly pounded out of me. Have you ever had anyone stand three feet in front of you, look straight through you, and say: 'Well, if she's a beauty, I feel sorry for myself.' Have you ever had a reporter when seeking you ask where your 'beautiful' big sister is? Have you ever been verbally dissected and minutely criticized until you doubted if any single portion of your anatomy were in proper place or shape? Well, if you had, you would conclude, as I have, that you were nothing but the undeserving selection of mistaken judges and critics, and the creature of an over-ambitious press agent."

"Varying tastes in feminine beauty have made me at times wish to be a delicately tinted blonde, a tall and dashing brunette, a futuristic type—in fact, anything but what I am. On every hand I see girls far more beautiful than I, whose charms are unknown because not advertised, and it makes me feel like an impostor."

"But," she confided, "I have a solution. I am going to try to become a great dancer, and then, maybe, I can earn approbation by displaying real ability. That would be something worth while, wouldn't it?"

"Please don't think, though, that I am a pessimist. My greatest good fortune has been the kindness of wonderful friends. The unkind things said of me I know are made because I do not suit the tastes of those who make them. I feel that if they knew that I did not think myself beautiful they would appreciate that my physical attributes are not my fault, and that they would say of me: 'Well, she's all right, and she may be a good dancer some day, anyway.'"

Mae Bennett comes as one feature of the best bill that has been given in Fresno this year. Victor Niblo with his famous talking birds feathered aristocrats of vaudeville who command fabulous salaries, have the most unique performance of all.

Dick and Margie Corral, musicians of note, who claim to be attend to the musical part of the program in a thoroughly competent manner.

Margaret Clayton is the only woman cartoonist who ever came to Fresno.

Brown and Brown with their comedy are a pair who lighten the bill most agreeably. The pictures are also good, being of the comic order demanded by vaudeville audiences.

MRS. LESLIE CARTER IN THE PLAY "DU BARRY"

A film version of the famous stage play "Du Barry" with Mrs. Leslie Carter in the title role is presented today at the Fresno Photo for the last time—a play in six acts which occupied five months in the making. This, we are told, eclipses in elaborate magnificence even "Quo Vadis."

Highly Dramatic In Its Events of French Revolution. It is founded on the play which turned the heads of the French in the last days of the reign of Louis XV. With players of such renown working amid the Alps that would expedite the production of a perfect picture, it is little wonder that "Du Barry" can rightly be classed a work of art. Tomorrow Nance O'Neil Appears in "Kreutzer Sonata."

MYSTERY AT BIJOU
BAFFLED AUDIENCE

Being in a country where peace or war may hang by such a fragile hair as the appearance or disappearance of a coin which has been broken into two halves, may not be especially pleasant, but at least it may furnish an abundance of excitement. And this is what Kitty Grey, American newspaper woman being, and thoroughly realizes when a hand poked through a curtain tells her to drop the coin she is about to take with her.

Now that should be excitement enough to suit anyone. It was sufficient for Kitty; she didn't ask for any more complications. However they were forthcoming, and in rapid fire order, too. Scarcely had she located the direction of the voice when another issued the same command, and turning she discovered another hand clutching a revolver and protruding through another curtain.

Kitty smiled. At least her responsibility was lessened. So she placed a half in each hand. The hand she had relieved the situation, but still another voice is heard demanding that each hand drop the half coin it holds. It is an insistent voice, and two revolvers are poked through the curtain. Hands number one and two reluctantly let go. The half coins clink dully on the floor.

The two men demand that the others step forth. One is Sachio's man, the other is Rolaux. The third is Frederick. The two coins lie on the floor and Kitty stoops to secure them. She has just picked up one and has reached for the other when a hand is suddenly clutched from behind the curtain. She is released through out of sight of the others and is seen in a cab, bound for she knew not whither.

The three men stand astounded. Frederick secures the remaining half of the coin, and little time is lost. All are eager to find Kitty, and they immediately set out, though separately.

Kitty, meanwhile, bound and gagged, is chloroformed and when she awakes it is to find herself within the narrow confines of four stone walls. A withered old hag brings milk and bread to her. When she is recovered enough from the effects of the chloroform she sits up, finds a note advising her to go back to America. A few moments later a giant in uniform comes in, gazes in an amazed manner at her, advances, places his huge hands on her shoulders, stares a few seconds and as silently leaves. It is another of Sachio's men.

On leaving the curtained room, Frederick goes to the king.

Rolaux goes in search of Kitty and with extreme good luck, gets on the trail. Climbing to the roof of the building where she is held captive he is on the point of communicating with her when he is discovered and set on by Sachio's men. Kitty, who has meanwhile fled the bars of the window, flings a rope at the window, ties the end to a screw in the floor and goes down hand over hand. But midway she is discovered, and one of the men awaits her at the street. She is again seized and placed in a room. When she tries to take leave from this by way of a forbidden door she finds a lioness barring the way. In the very act of springing, the lion is only stopped by the hastily closed door. Kitty has had the narrowest escape of her life.

Rolaux is placed in another part of the same building. Sachio now has possession of one part of the coin, while Frederick has the other half. The search must again be taken up. Installment number seven will be shown today at the Bijou theater.

"WHO PAYS?" CREATES
MUCH INTEREST

"The Love Liar," the fourth of a series of twelve "Who Pays?" dramas of undiluted realism, is the feature of an entirely new program at The Lyric today. "The Love Liar" has for its theme the tale of a woman who rushed in where love had feared to tread and of a gentle invalid who thought he wasn't, also of a young man whose spend was greater than his control and how it lost him the game.

The story of a woman who was born with the proverbial silver spoon in her mouth—reared in the even more proverbial lap of luxury, the lady didn't know what it meant to make ends meet. Her ends had always luxuriously overlapped. But the time came when the silver spoon fell and she was thrust into the world of poverty and dread. A wedding ceremony with a rich invalid, whose only knowledge of youth was a distant memory. She was led to the altar where she mouthed the "I do" death do us part" force and went to live with her husband with a man whose wealth was the only thing about him she loved. To live with a man she didn't love, under ordinary circumstances, have been difficult enough—it was the natural aversion of youth for age; but when, added to this, she found herself in the clutches of a man whose wealth was the only thing about him she loved, the situation was a young medical attendant, her life became a tortuous labyrinth of lies and fears of apprehension. It is at this point that "The Love Liar" makes its greatest appeal to your insistent demand for unflinching realism in the place of the usual lollipop romanticism. It is just this reverse twist in the most unexpected places that makes the "Who Pays?" series the most talked of pictures from the Maine Coast to the Golden Gate.

Other pictures in the Lyric's program will be a Pathé hand-colored scenic and an excellent comedy, "The Rosary" Coming.

The Lyric has contracted for features of the Big Four Producing company and as a result will obtain all the feature productions of the Lyric, Lasker, Essanay and Solig companies, the four greatest motion picture producers in the world.

The first melodramatic production will be "The Rosary," which is booked for September 12 and 13. The second will be "The Challenge of Courage," September 19 and 20.

"The Rosary" is a religious story which will undoubtedly attract members of the congregations of every church in the city. The story of the country has given unreserved endorsement to the film.

"The Challenge of Courage" is a story built around the supreme sacrifice in which a man kills his own wife, not through anger, but because he believes he is doing an act that will relieve her suffering.

MASSACHUSETTS MAN IS THE WINNER OF BIG STAKES AT GRAND CIRCUIT

Chester W. Lasell Drives Three-Year-Old Trotter to Victory and Purse of $50,000

YONKERS, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Chester W. Lasell of Westchester, Mass., won the national championship steeplechase stakes for three-year-old trotters at the Grand Circuit meeting here today with Henry Todd, a young horse that he had developed, trained and driven to victory. The prize was the largest of the Grand Circuit thus far this season and the largest yet offered by the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders under the auspices of which organization the race was arranged. The winner received $5,000 and the total stakes were $50,000.

The race was closely contested in both heats, but the track was so slow that the colts could not attain within three or four seconds of their real capacity. Husbands, the colt that would have started favorite, had there been any breaking of pool selling, was distanced in the first heat. The times of the heats were 2:11.3-4 and 2:12.1-2. Yodine, the Canadian pacer, winner of a sensational race at the Montreal Grand Circuit meeting, could not last it out in the heavy going, and after winning two heats in 2:07 and 2:07.1, she was beaten off by the Indian horse, Husbands, in the final heats and to much slower time. Len McDonald, who drove the winner, also won the Manhattan purse of $2,000, for 2:13.

TWO LEADING GOLFERS ARE ELIMINATED FROM THE TOURNAMENT

Francis Oulmet, 'Holder of Amateur, Lost to Standish of Detroit; Marston Triumphs

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—America's two leading golfers were eliminated from the national amateur championship tournament at the Country Club this afternoon. Francis Oulmet, holder of the amateur title, lost to James H. Standish, Jr., of Detroit, 5 down and 4 to play. Max H. Marston of Springfield, N. J., triumphed over Jerome Travers, open champion, 2 and 1. Oulmet played poorly, slicing his drives and missing short putts. Marston's putting was almost perfect. Sherill Sherman of Ulster, N. Y., and J. N. Stearns of Willingboro, Pa., went an extra hole before the former won. Stearns was behind nearly all day and only by winning the thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth holes was he able to even the stroke.

Charles took a closely fought and well played contest from T. M. Sherman of Ulster, 2 and 1. Gardner was four up in the forenoon, but Sherman played so well after lunch that he not only overhauled the former national champion, but took the lead and held it.

Lee and Nelson Whitney had easy victories. Each won 3 and 8, the former from Hamilton Kerr of Manchester, Vt., and Whitney from A. C. Ulmer of Jacksonville, Fla. Lee got 72 for his day's work, which equals the medal play record of the year.

Savage won six and five from Gardner White of Flushing, L. I., and added another 75 to his splendid performance since Sunday.

Anderson removed J. B. Schottman of Detroit from further play four and three. The pairings for tomorrow's contest (two rounds) to oppose each other—the second time in three days the incident has occurred—Gardner and Savage meet. Marston will play Lee and it is expected the easterner will have fierce competition. Whitney clashes with Anderson and Standish has Sherill Sherman for an opponent.

Following are the afternoon card:

Gardner: (Four up in the afternoon). Out 416 735 255—42. In 454 538 14. Sherman: Out 414 434 316—35. In 461 434 55. Gardner won, two and one. Whitney: (Four up in forenoon). Out 454 435 351—37. In 4. Ulmer did not keep an afternoon card. Whitney won, nine and eight. Savage: (Six up in forenoon). Out 543 435 355—39. In 4. Kerr: Out 653 445 455—18. In 4. Lee won, nine and eight.

GREAT OUTPUT OF CALIFORNIA GOLD

Record Made Since 1883 and 1864—Over Twenty Millions

The yield of gold from California mines in 1914, as reported by Charles J. Yale, of the United States Geological Survey, was $25,250,000, which with the exception of that in 1883, was the largest production since 1864.

The total value of the mine output of gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc was $25,710,845, so that the value of the gold recovered amounted to 80 per cent of the total value of the five metals. The mine production of copper was 39,507,362 pounds, valued at $1,057,233; that of silver, 1,471,559 ounces valued at $13,333. That of lead, 125,123 pounds, valued at $106,825, and that of zinc was 239,171 pounds, valued at $1,882. The mine output of precious metals was $25, of which 210 were placers that yielded gold and silver valued at $9,100,136. This output from placers, mining was $22,590 more in 1914 than in 1913 and was exceeded in 1914 only by that from Alaska. The placers produced 84 per cent of the output of gold from California in 1914, and the 60 gold dredges operated produced 86 per cent of the placer gold and 38 per cent of the gold derived from all sources. The gold recovered from dredging amounted to $7,535,381, of which the field near Marysville, Yuba county, produced $2,755,734; that near Oroville, Butte county, $1,637,515; and that near Colusa, Sacramento county, $2,142,132. Dredges operated in California, Mexico, Placer, Shasta, Siskiyou, Stanislaus and Trinity counties recovered $1,235,202. Dredging mining was first started in California in 1839, and the total quantity of gold recovered by that method of mining up to the end of 1914 was $71,307,760.

The total quantity of ore sold or mined in 1914 was 2,465,457 tons, and the average value per ton of metals recovered was $5.71. Of the ore recovered, 2,050,337 tons was siliceous gold ore, from which there was an average recovery of $5.52 a ton in gold and silver. There was 1,393,821 tons of ore mined of gold and silver, which yielded $10,713,297 in gold and $91,327 in silver, or an average value of $5.11 a ton. The ore smelted amounted to 449,122 tons, of which 367,565 tons were copper ore, 410 tons lead ore, and 16,180 silver-lead ore. This smelting ore yielded metals valued at $5,933,886, or an average of $13.54 a ton.

Nevada county, which produced the most gold, had a yield of $3,301,948, or $38.215 more than in 1913. Other counties that produced over $1,000,000 in gold were Amador, Yuba, Sacramento, Butte, Colusa and Shasta. Shasta county was the largest producer of copper, with an output of 26,192,000 pounds and it also made the largest production of silver, $26,961 ounces. Inyo county supplied all the zinc and 4,205,151 pounds of lead out of a total state production of 4,251,223 pounds.

The largest gold-producing camps were Grass Valley (including Nevada City), in Nevada county, where the deep mines yielded $2,997,405 in gold and $25,865 in silver, and at the Jackson-Silver-Creek camp, where the deep-mine production was $2,113,098 in gold, with silver valued at $12,674. The most productive metal camp in the state was at Kennett, in Shasta county. From the mines at and near Kennett there were recovered metals valued at $3,087,19, of which $2,411,323 was for copper.

CHARGE FRAUD IN OIL COMPETITION

Price Held Down to Less Than Cost of Production in Kansas

TOPEKA, Sept. 1.—Representatives in Kansas of the standard oil company were indicted today by Attorney General S. M. Brewster to appear before him next Wednesday to explain complaints of violating the state anti-discrimination law, made by independent refiners who claim that they have been injured by the Standard's alleged unfair methods of competition.

John Longshore of Chanute, Kan., representing one of the larger independent refining companies of the state, told the attorney general that the Standard has been holding down the price of gasoline and kerosene in Kansas to a figure which does not cover the cost of production.

TWELVE MILLIONS LESS IN U. S. PUBLIC DOMAIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—More than 11,000,000 acres of public land eliminated from the public domain during the past fiscal year, the annual report of Commissioner Talbot of the general land office will show. There remains 375,411,491 acres in the public land domain, or approximately 30,000,000 acres in Alaska.

Nevada has the most public land, 55,117,145 acres, and Missouri, with only 923 acres, reports the least. California has 26,625,923 acres; Arizona, 36,510,227; New Mexico, 27,785,367; and Oregon, 18,112,175.

JITNEYS LOSE FIGHT AGAINST LICENSE

OAKLAND, Sept. 1.—On the grounds that the operation of jitneys is a "business" and is therefore taxable, the Superior Court today upheld Oakland's $50 annual license. The specific case, brought by Leroy M. Phillips, was instituted to test the city's ordinance and will be appealed. Five-cent bus operators insisted they should not pay the license because the state license covers the situation.

"I want a 'description' filled for half a dozen five-ounce quinine pills," she announced.

"Why, woman, that pill would paralyze an ox; what's the matter with you?" asked the astonished chemist.

"Nothing do matter with me," she answered. "It's for my daughter, and she's some hot. Gladys she takes after me. My husband's been benched and insubordinate."

"But quinine comes in grains, not ounces."

"Well," was the scornful rejoinder. "It's another mistake of that fool varb doctor. Last year, when she had only 12 months in her stomach he got her so hot that she fainted and she had to weigh 'em down."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

EASY ENOUGH TO EXPLAIN.

"Your daughter happy, Choe?"

For Acid Stomachs Use Magnesia

The almost universal use of magnesia for the treatment of stomach troubles, is due to the fact that it stops food fermentation and neutralizes the acid—the direct cause of indigestion. It is composed of the most purest of magnesia, such as oxides, carbonates, phosphates, etc., the most suitable and efficient, and the one prescribed by leading specialists in indigestion. It is a powerful antacid, which in a little while immediately neutralizes the acid, stops fermentation, and thus ensures normal digestion. ADVICE FROM AN EXPERT

An old negro man, says Every-body Magazine, had a family of boys so well behaved that one day her mistress asked:

"Sally, how did you raise your boys so well?"

"Ah, tell yo, missus," answered Sally. "Ah raise dem boys with a barrel stave, an' Ah raise 'em frequent."

BREAKING THE NEWS

When, according to rumors, Pat Hoogan burst into the house, crying:

"Mrs. Flanagan, your man, Mike, has just fell off the scaffolding and killed himself, bedad!" Mrs. Flanagan collapsed into a chair.

"Aisy, aisy!" Pat continued. "This only his leg that's broke. It's no harm yet he's here. It, when ye thought he was killed tur-rat!"

BLAMED CORPULENT BATHER

A Kanran sat on the beach at Atlantic City watching a very fat bather disporting himself in the surf. He knew nothing about tides, and he did not notice that each succeeding wave came a little closer to his feet. At last an extra big wave washed over his head.

My Endless Wife or Judge Endless

My wife, Endless, wife of Judge Endless, of a small Missouri town, explained one day that she had accidentally swallowed a button, which she was holding in her mouth preparatory to attaching to some garment.

As the lady was given to making great ado over trivial mishaps, and as the judge was much concerned, he did not pay much heed. Soon after, however, finding her in tears, he made kindly inquiry as to their cause.

"It's your heartless in-indifference to anything that happens to me," sobbed the aggrieved little woman. "I swallowed a button, and you were so busy with your work that you didn't think you might have taken enough interest in it to inquire what kind of a button it was."—Youth's Companion.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT SET IS THE MOST SENSATIONAL EVER PLAYED

Walter L. Hall Defeats W. F. Johnson 18-16; Longest Set on Record in Championship Game

FOREST HILLS, Sept. 1.—The afternoon session opened with the most sensational set of tennis ever played in a national championship tournament when Walter L. Hall defeated W. F. Johnson 18-16 in the first set.

This is the longest set on record in championship tennis play in the United States and exceeds the famous Davis Cup match between Laurence D. Miles and Norman Brookes a year ago, which the Californian won 17-15. Johnson won the second set 6-4, his chop strokes just over the net expertly finding Hall out of position.

Hall won the third set 6-2, forcing Johnson to the brink of the court where his chop strokes were not so effective.

Hall won the fifth and deciding set of the match with Johnson at 6-2.

FOREST HILLS, Sept. 1.—Johnson opened up his match with Hall by winning the fourth set 6-4.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Thirty-two representative tennis players survived the second round of the national championship singles at the courts of the West Side Club here today, after a series of matches in which sensational tennis was the rule rather than the exception. The group included the entire California contingent, a number of eastern experts and a sprinkling of southern and mid-western entrants.

Interest in Williams

The chief interest of the spectators centered in the showing of R. Norris Williams II, the present champion, and Maurice B. McLaughlin of San Francisco, former title holder, and Williams' chief rival for the premier honors this season. While both the eastern and the Pacific coast stars won their contests, it remained for other players of lesser ranking to furnish the thrills of the day.

Williams defeated P. C. Inman of New York 7-5, 6-1, 8-7, and McLaughlin came through at the expense of Dean Mathew, the Princeton University boy by scores of 6-1, 6-2, 8-6. Of the two Americans, Williams was the more disappointing, although it is probable that the majority of the spectators expected more spectacular play from the Californian contest than from Williams.

The title holder in this contest against Inman exhibited his usual brilliant game, although he never gave the impression of having some in reserve for the crucial stages. He opened with a beautiful collection of placement shots, hitting the corners and base lines repeatedly. Inman, however, refused to be discouraged by the champion's shots and played back every pettish ball, forcing the Harvard expert into a defence set before he would admit defeat.

Williams fairly ran away with the second set, his strokes and generalship being well-nigh perfect. In the third, he repeated his usual brilliant play, taking advantage of the fact that Inman was a high point, forcing the champion to play desperately at the end to finish without the loss of a set. While Inman used both his service and cleverness in length and placement shots, it was Williams' repeated use of the mud ball that prolonged the set to sixteen games.

In some respects McLaughlin's first campaign on the grand stand courts resembled that of Williams. He won his first two sets against Mathew by one-sided games, took the next two games, again he failed to back his advantage and soon Mathew was within a game of the set. Although his rifle shot service was not working smoothly and he was missing many of his first twisting serves, McLaughlin made it a 5-0 ball by a straight attack that showed what he could do in an emergency. Once he was on even terms with Mathew there was no further doubt regarding the set, and although the Princetonian player drew round after round of applause by his fighting spirit and remarkable returns of some of the Californian's terrific drives, he could not wave off defeat.

The point scores of these matches follow:

First set, with points and games: McLaughlin: 4 7 4 5 4-25 6. Mathew: 5 3 2 2 0-19 1.

Second set: McLaughlin: 5 1 2 4 4 4-29 6. Mathew: 4 4 2 1 3 3-20 2.

Third set: McLaughlin: 5 3 3 4 3 1 4 4-25 6. Mathew: 7 3 2 2 5 4 2 0-14 2-24 6.

More evenly matched players of high skill furnished the real thrills for the spectators in the other grand stand contests of the day in the case of establishing a new national tournament record of their efforts to win. The record breaking occurred in the
